

As a paying customer for the XM satellite radio service, the notion of limiting their content is insane. It is a free market and as a consumer, the fee I pay should provide the right to listen to content which does not cross any decency bounds. The information provided by the traffic service is not readily available in the detail provided. This saves time and also helps save gas as listeners can immediately choose traffic routes to avoid congestion.